JOINT ECONOMIC COMMITTEE
STUDY ON INFLATIONAugust 7, 1974
[S. Con. Res. 93]

Whereas the United States economy has been suffering from serious and persistent inflation; and

Whereas unemployment continues to be an economic problem, for the present as well as the near future; and

Whereas extremely high interest rates have caused serious dislocations in the housing industry, in small business, and in other sectors of the economy; and

Whereas the economy of the United States has been upset by shortages of basic resources; and

Whereas prospective shortages continue to be a cause of concern; and

Whereas solutions to these economic ills require the consideration of a large number of interrelated policy questions; and
